Old Greenwich, Conn. — Public-minded people should support vigorously the Tractors for Prisoners deal offered by Cuban dictator Castro. The committee raising the money is undertaking a humanitarian job that fulfills the obligation we Americans have to the brave Cubans who tried, with the encouragement and active help of our Central Intelligence Agency, to free Cuba from Castro's dictatorship. The preparation for the ill-fated invasion began under Eisenhower and President Kennedy did not have the wisdom to stop it. The Central Intelligence Agency is a government agency, although itself closely curbed and controlled by the elected representatives of the people. Consequently, we are responsible for getting those anti-Castro Cubans into the hands of Castro. The least we can do is to get them out.

Incidentally, the production of the tractors will provide badly needed jobs for workers in the farm machinery industry.

ALFRED BAKER LEWIS.
